DETAILED ACTION

Note that claims 15-16 are canceled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 2-6, 9-10, 13, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for other forms, does not reasonably provide enablement for solvates. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

The claims, insofar as they embrace solvates are not enabled. The numerous examples presented all failed to produce a solvate. The evidence of the specification is thus clear: These compounds do not possess the property of forming solvates; there is no evidence that such compounds even exist. Thus, this is a circumstance where the "specification is evidence of its own inadequacy" (In re Rainer, 377 F.2d 1006, 1012, 153 USPQ 802, 807). These cannot be simply willed into existence. As was stated in Morton International Inc. v. Cardinal Chemical Co., 28 USPQ2d 1190 "The specification purports to teach, with over fifty examples, the preparation of the claimed compounds with the required connectivity. However ... there is no evidence that such compounds exist... the examples of the '881 patent do not produce the postulated compounds... there is ... no evidence that such compounds even exist." The same circumstance appears to be true here: there is no evidence that solvates of these compounds actually exist; if they did, they would have formed. Hence, applicants must show that solvates can be made, or limit the claims accordingly.

The traverse is unpersuasive. Applicants state that they are "unable to locate any portion of the specification where Applicants teach that a preparation of a particular solvate failed."

Solvents employed in the examples include methylene chloride, DMF, methanol, acetonitrile, t-butanol, ethyl acetate and water. In none of these cases does the specification report a solvate being formed.

Applicants continue, "No amount of undue experimentation is required for one skilled in the art to make and use solvates. Indeed, the Office does not even assert what experimentation is needed, let alone explain why such experimentation is undue."

This is not a matter of undue experimentation. It is a matter of the apparent fact that the evidence of record is that the compounds do not form solvates. One forms solvates by exposing a material to the solvent, and obtaining the material in a solid form. That did not happen here.

Applicants can overcome this by showing that a compound within the scope of the claims does in fact form a solvate.

Claims 2-6, 9-10, 13-14, 17, and 29-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, paragraphs 1 and 2, as the claimed invention is not described, or is not described in such full, clear, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to make and use the same, and/or failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as his invention. Specifically:

Applicants have added a 4-10 ring size to the aromatic ring. The "4" does not make sense. There is no such thing as an aromatic ring with 4 members. This is impossible and in error (paragraph 2). Alternatively, if applicants really do intend a 4-membered aromatic ring, then it is not enabled. One cannot make that which does not exist.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
